UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The service next Sunday will be in charge of the pastor. The sermon topic is "Divine Love and Human Life." All are cordially invited.

The report of the annual meeting of the congregation was omitted last week due to an oversight. The attendance was rather disappointing but the reports from the various departments were very satisfactory. No arrears were reported but the various balances were quite small. A feature was the Sunday school report, which revealed a higher average attendance than last year's average which was a record. The splendid mark of $9.5 will likely remain a record for some time to come.

The financial statement of the official board was as follows:

Receipts
Bank Balance, Dec. 31 '32.	$3.54
Irma Appointment	1,024.54
Passchendale Appointment	135.99
Roseberry Appointment	77.10
Alma Mater Appointment	95.50

It was decided to submit names to the congregation for election to the board of stewards and to the session. For the board of stewards on which there are two vacancies the following were nominated: Messrs. N. S. Johnson, W. Masson and A. E. Peterson. For the session on which there are three vacancies the following were nominated: Messdames A. H. Locke, H. Osterhout and I. S. Reeds, Messrs. A. E. Peterson and I. S. Reeds.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR A RETURN

I beg to give notice that on Tuesday next I will propose the following motion to the provincial assembly:

WHEREAS the main highway known as the Edmonton-Wainwright-Saskatchewan highway, serves one of Canada's National Parks, as well as one of Alberta's best known oilfields; and

WHEREAS the completion of Alberta's main highway system to the Saskatchewan boundary is now long overdue; and

WHEREAS ample gravel is located adjacent to this highway at Kinsella; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That in the opinion of this legislature, the provincial government should include this highway as one of this year's projects for main highway construction under the proposed federal unemployment relief plan.

In New York on Monday night the pole vault for indoor meets was shattered by Keith Brown. He soared over the bar set at 14 feet 4 inches. If you just stop to visualize that height you will realize that this fellow Brown accomplished something worth telling, and just to show what a high jump, without a pole, should be, Walter Marty negotiated 6 feet 8 and 3-4 inches. This battered old world standards inside or out.

A young man who applied for a marriage license at the Vogreville court house was given a drivers license by mistake. He took it back and exchanged it for a marriage license, but it is said that he now finds it also included a drivers license—back seat driver.

Four Chick-Sexing Scientists Will Aid B.C. Poultry Industry

(By PAT TERRY, Marine Editor of The Vancouver Sun)

(The following article on the science of chick-sexing will no doubt be of great interest to many of our readers who raise poultry. Chick-sexing is a major industry in B.C., and it will undoubtedly save the farmers many thousands of dollars. In Alberta poultry farming has its place in industrial life, and as time goes on, chick-sexing will be an integral part of Alberta's chicken-farming business.—EDITOR.)

Four young Japanese scientists, bland and urbane, stepped from the gangplank of N.Y.K. MS. Hikawa Maru when she berthed in Vancouver on Saturday, February 17th, to B. W. Greer and Son, her agents.

None of them is more than 23 years of age, but they possess secrets and skill which are to be placed at the service of a British Columbia $1,000,000 industry, chicken farming, the products which are valued annually at between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The four experts landed in Vancouver with the best wishes of the Japanese government, which, over a sheltering wing over a new science originating in Japan; the science of determining, with speed and 100 per cent accuracy, the sex of day-old chicks, a problem which has caused endless waste of money in the chicken-farming industry.

Straight to Tests

The four young men, Yamamoto, Kubota, Kondo and Aihara, are the four most expert practitioners of the science in the world, having passed tests giving them that distinction during the past three years from thousands of competitors. They possess degrees in zoology. They are representatives of the new internationally-famous Japan Chick Sexing Association, formed since Japanese professors evolved the science of chick-sexing, and poultrymen in the United States, Europe and Canada realized the value of it.

Some idea of the importance of the work to be undertaken by these four young men, led by Hikosaburo Yogo, 17-year-old expert who has been demonstrating in Canada and United States during 1933, can be gauged by the fact that the B.C. poultry industry will be saved, by their skill, $18,000 at once.

Sex 600,000 in B. C.
The Chick Sexing Association of America, under whose charge the four experts have been brought to Canada, has received requests to sex 600,000 day-old chicks in B.C. The hatching season proper opens in B.C. in early March.

P. J. Conlin and his brother Henry, Vancouver men who control chick-sexing activities other than in Japan, have set up an organization operating at the Canadian border near Cloverdale.

They have received requests from U.S. chicken farmers for experts to sex more than 1,000,000 day-old chicks immediately.

Proceeding direct from "Kikawa Maru" to customs, the four young men were cleared and rushed at once to the border organization.

Meeting them at "Kikawa Maru" were officials of the Chick Sexing Association of America interested hatchery men and Prof. Lloyd head of the poultry section of the University of B.C.

Senator Burns was prevented by business at the last moment from meeting them. He has been watching the progress of the chick-sexing movement in Canada and realizing its influence on the chicken-farming industry.

"It is the most wonderful thing ever discovered for the Canadian chicken industry," declared Senator Burns.

None of the four young scientists speaks English but through an interpreter Yamamoto stated: "It is the wish of our government that we shall continue the training of some of your Canadian boys who are learning chick-sexing."

Gas Line Hockey News

Irma Defeats Local Hockey Crew by Score of 4 to 3

Little Bob Maguire, speedy Irma forward, was the "whole show" at the hockey game here Saturday evening, when the Irma team needed out a 4 to 3 victory over Viking after 20 minutes of overtime. The winning marker came after seventeen minutes of overtime play when Bob slammed in the winning counter from centre right ice right in front of the Viking goal, McLaren having no chance to save. Bob played a star game all evening.

In more ways than one the victory was important for our neighboring town. If they had have lost this contest they would have been out of the playoff. As it is now they have another chance. Viking has to play Holden and the outcome of this game will decide who's who in the playoffs.

Breeding along like a well oiled machine the Irma lads set a fast pace right from the opening gong and after ten minutes of play Bob Maguire was credited with a goal that was vigorously questioned, but ruled as O.K. by referee Umphrey. Spectators and players alike were divided in their opinions but the goal judge and the referee's decision was final. At this stage goal judges were changed and the battle raged merrily on, with either side having very little advantage.

"The Viking lads put on an extra spurt at the beginning of the second frame, and after five minutes of play Dorsey counted the first Viking goal on a neat pass from Maher, and repeated with another the next minute, putting his teammates in the lead. This was short-lived, however, as Frank Maguire, brother of Bob, shot a fast one from the boards to even the score before the gong rang for rest.

Cheers greeted the efforts of Dorsey to again put his teammates in the lead when he stickkicked his way through the entire Irma team for the third score. This lead looked awfully good for a while, but Bob Maguire tied the old game up with another one that slid into the goal right under McLaren's feet. Efforts of both teams to score again before the end of the third period were futile, in spite of cheering and encouragement from the hundreds of fans along the boards.

The first ten minutes of overtime proved scoreless. Plenty of action by both aggregations with little to choose between them.

In the next overtime period Bob Maguire caught a pass from the boards while he was in front of the Viking goal and he registered his third goal for the evening which proved the winner. There was a lot of jubilation in the Irma camp when the final bell sounded taps for the night.

Jas. Hedley, who managed the team in the absence of Percy Jones, stated that about fifty fans accompanied the team from Irma—Holden, Kinsella, Bruce and Jarrow were also represented.

It was a bang-up hockey game all the way, the play being about even with Irma having the breaks, if any. Six minor penalties were handed out—three to Irma and three to Viking players. In spite of the fast going the game was clean, the boys putting the line up into the game.

SPORT PEEPS

Professional tennis has brought to Ellsworth Vines the huge sum of $26,000 in his first month. There were a lot of professionals before he and Tilden started touring the country, but they did not have the colorful personalities of these two. Such gate receipts shows that tennis is a game that entertains an audience. People are willing to pay freely to see real expert players strut their stuff.

If Vines continues to haul in the shekels at the rate of $25,000 a month, it will not be long before he surpasses the income of Babe Ruth, in his palmy days. A salary of $75,000, along with some "pickings" made baseball the producer of the highest paid player of any sport, except boxing. No one ever dreamed that tennis would ever smash this record.

Handicrafts In The West

Shortly after the conclusion of the World's Grain Show held at Regina last summer the question arose as to the uses to which the big quarter of a million dollar Grain Show building could be devoted, not only in connection with the annual provincial exhibition but throughout the year. Many suggestions were advanced, but few had any relation to the subject of the use to be made of the building in connection with the annual Provincial Exhibition, possibly because of the size of the structure, the great extent of floor space, and the difficulty in these recent years of finding necessary funds to promote any large development.

The writer now proposes to advance an idea for the consideration not only of the Regina Provincial Exhibition Board, but of people throughout the three prairie provinces. This idea is advanced because it is somewhat in keeping with the international character of the project for which the building was originally constructed; because it presents an opportunity to encourage and develop one aspect of our western life we are in danger of neglecting; and because it appears to be a feasible undertaking at the present time, and, in fact, may even provide a small source of income to many people who are in dire need of every cent they can earn.

The suggestion we advance is that this building erected to house grain and other exhibits of the nations of the world, or at least a portion of it, should continue to be utilized each year for the display of the handicrafts of the people of the many nations who constitute such a large proportion of the population of Western Canadian provinces. In other words, that the various racial and national groups throughout the West be invited, encouraged, even urged, to revive their home handicrafts on a larger scale than before and to exhibit the same, the understanding being that the exhibitors have the right to sell the goods they have placed on exhibit if they so desire.

What, we ask, could provide a more colorful, interesting and instructive exhibition than a continuous series of booths each devoted to the handicrafts of different national groups, presided over by men and women of each particular group, dressed in their national costumes?

Some years ago the C.P.R. sponsored the holding of exhibitions of handicrafts throughout Canada, and these were attended by thousands of interested visitors. In conjunction with such exhibitions, festivals and concerts featuring the music of different countries were held. Recently at Regina, a highly successful folk festival and dance was held in which hundreds of citizens of non-English speaking nationalities participated, each providing their own orchestra or band.

The people of every nationality have some worthwhile contribution they can make to the upbuilding of this Canadian nation. These people have chosen Canada, yes, Western Canada, as their home; they are bringing their children up to be Canadians. They have a wealth of tradition arising out of the past histories of their native lands, of music, poetry, literature, and a bewildering array of handicrafts to contribute that will add richness to this young nation now in the making. They should be encouraged to make this contribution. It should be impressed upon them that they are welcome in Canada; that so far from asking or expecting them to forget their old homelands and the customs and traditions and handicrafts of their native countries, we want them to add these as a contribution to the greater beauty and strength of Canada.

Why not, therefore, utilize at least a portion of the fine World's Grain Show building to develop a little annual international exhibition put on by the people of many lands now resident in our midst on these Western plains? Let us have the flags of all nations waving again over booths filled with the arts and handicrafts of Germany, Poland, Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Ukraine, Greece, Russia, Austria, Hungary. Let us include China and Japan, who have representatives in our midst. And the Irish, the Scotch, the Welsh should join their contributions with the English, and the French-Canadians to round out the whole.

At the World's Grain Show last summer there were a few of these handicraft exhibits, and they were most interesting although rather overshadowed by the magnitude of the show in other respects. But with one wing of the big building arranged in attractively decorated national booths, with exhibits of the arts and handicrafts of each nation on display, with national flags and national costumes, and all of which will be provided by and through people now resident in the prairie provinces—a use can be made of the Grain Show building which will return a dividend to Canada, not in cash perhaps, but in nation building. At the same time activity in national arts and handicrafts will be encouraged, these arts and skill in workmanship will not be lost, and, in fact, a valuable and growing domestic market developed for hand-made products from many a humble and needy home.

Weary Days—Sleepless Nights

Strength In The Air

Official Of Air Ministry Satisfied With Britain's Efficiency

Our stunt press so frequently sets our flesh creeping by allusions to our unpreparedness to ward off air attacks that it is refreshing to hear the views of a real expert.

I had a talk to-day with one of the high officials of the Air Ministry. He scoffed at the notion that we should imitate Italy in constructing "funk holes" beneath our arterial roads. He was not even greatly concerned that civilians should be trained in the use of gas masks. When I reminded him that in the matter of aeroplane squadrons we came very low down in the list of the seven big powers, his contention was that it was not aeroplanes that counted, but the efficiency of the pilots. Aeroplanes could be turned out at the rate of hundreds a month if necessary.

"Where do we stand," I asked, "in the matter of efficiency?" "Measured by this room," he said, "we are right up to the ceiling. And the Power that comes next is America. Her position would be just about two-thirds up the wall."—London Cor. Ottawa Journal.

Protective Association

Toronto Landlords Have Problem With Destitute Tenants

Toronto landlords have formed a protective association. Landlords should not be shouldered with the double burden of providing both free rent and most of the city's taxes, the meeting agreed. It was attended by about 200 people and lasted more than three hours.

H. L. Rogers, former alderman, was the principal speaker. "It is unfair," he declared, "that the landlord should be faced with the ugly alternative of having either to turn a destitute man out on the street or to give him free rent. It is dishonest to make you pay for relief through taxes, and then to make you pay rent for the poor when others who own stocks and bonds have to pay no more than income taxes."

Strange Story From Desert

Captive Legionaries Have Been Slaves Of Arabs For Years

The members of a colony of captive legionaries who, forgotten by the world, have for many years labored under Arabs in the burning heat of the desert, are now beginning to find their way back to civilization. The first intimation of the existence of such a colony came when an ex-legionary named Lopez Posito, who had been regarded as dead for many years, three months ago staggered into the Spanish garrison of Villa Cisneros, in South-West Morocco, completely exhausted. The Spaniards told a strange tale of a band of legionaries of all nationalities held captive and held under conditions of virtual slavery for Arab taskmasters. A Jew named Aaron Cohen later arrived in the French zone with a similar story. Thereafter a Spanish commission took up the matter and after negotiations aided by friendly Sahara sheiks, the first party of ex-legionaries arrived at Cap Juby, near Villa Cisneros.

Planning Huge Stadium

Germany Getting Ready For Olympic Games Of 1936

Germany is rebuilding for the Olympic Games of 1936 the great stadium which was constructed for the Olympics of 1916, cancelled because of the war.

Werner March, son of the original builder, is in charge of remodeling the huge arena in the Grunewald, just outside of Berlin, and plans to make it more complete even than the Los Angeles stadium.

It is planned that the main stadium will be surrounded by a tennis court, a cycling ground and a swimming pool, with accommodations for 440,000 spectators. Furthermore, a ground for equestrian sports will be erected. A home for athletes, to be called "The Home of German Sports," is also planned, as well as buildings with social centres for the athletes participating at the 1936 games.

In issuing orders for the reconstruction, Chancellor Hitler declared: "Germany receives herewith a sports arena the equal of which has never been seen anywhere in the world." The German sports commissioner, Von Tschammer-Osten and the minister of interior, Wilhelm Frick, have full powers for conducting construction work. The money needed for the purpose has already been appropriated by the ministry of finance.

If all is achieved as foreseen the German Olympic-Stadium for 1936, it is claimed, will be the greatest and most practical sports centre in the world.

Marvels of the Human Eye
By F. M. CROWE, Optometrist-Optician, Calgary

ARE HUMAN EYES DEGENERATING?

This question is frequently asked by people who observe closely the steadily increasing number of "glass-wearers" as compared with a generation ago. The answer is—No. The eyes of the present generation are no wiser better or weaker than those of our ancestors unless it can be proved that the whole physique of the race has degenerated. As is the whole physical body so are the eyes.

But much more is required of our eyes today than formerly. The unprecedented growth of manufacturing and commercial life, the strenuous struggle for existence, the ever increasing complexity of modern civilization, the knowledge of the world in all lines of human endeavor, knowledge that must be mastered to achieve success, put far greater strain on the eyes to-day than heretofore. Our schools are far more exacting and severe, the business and scientific worlds require closer application and more painstaking care than ever before. Electricity has turned night into day making it possible to do much work by artificial illumination that was formerly impossible and unnecessary. All this then requires the use of sharper vision and more hours per day of it than was necessary in former times and because of these exacting demands on the eyes, latent imperfections and errors of refraction causing eyestrain, are made manifest by symptoms of discomfort and distress compelling us to seek improvement of vision and the comfort afforded by proper glasses.

Investigation has shown that primitive races of men have the same irregularities of the eyes as we have, the difference lies in the use to which they are put. So when Nature gives the warning signals—common sense would say—take heed.

Where Day-Walking Is Legal

Way-walking is quite legal in Britain and no pedestrian need obey a traffic light. This was made plain by Major Oliver Stanley, minister of transport, in reply to a parliamentary question. The minister said it would not be practicable to impose the same legal obligations as on automobilists at street intersections guarded by traffic lights.

Russia Has Costly Project

Details of a $51,500,000 project just started in Russia for the study of the human body, ill and healthy, and from every angle, including eugenics and heredity, were made public by a two-man commission which has been studying American hospitals and medical centres since last November. The project, to be known as All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine, is located in a suburb of Leningrad, called Ilo-sturbo.

Object To Wax Models

"Effeminate" wax models for displaying uniforms in military tailor shops in Rome has aroused the ire of Fascist newspapers and officers, who demand that the "sissified" figures be replaced by "manly military and less endearing clothes horses." One officer, writing in the newspaper Tribuna, said that "shop windows show officers with pomaded hair, feminine figures, eyebrows and lashes of a Garbo and lovely carmine finger-nails."

Good Business With Japan

Value Of Exports In 1933 Over Million Dollars Higher

An increase of more than $1,000,000 in Canadian exports to Japan during the past year was one of the bright spots of Canada's foreign trade in 1933, says a trade review of the department of trade and commerce. Exports increased from $11,995,887 in 1932 to $13,001,704 in 1933. Exports of wheat flour to Japan increased in value from $383,653 to $609,367; wood pulp shipments increased in value from $884,392 to $1,444,284 and scrap iron from $18,060 to $390,653. On the other hand, however, marked decreases were shown in the value of exports of wheat and lumber.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stunned and Camilla's mother likewise. Camilla decides that she must leave the home of her adopted parents immediately and go to live with Rose, her sister, who is a file in a business house. They decide to take an apartment. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted some of her work, send for her and tell her they have a new account which requires unusual treatment of juvenile art. To Camilla's surprise she learns that the account is that of her foster father's company, which has decided on an extensive campaign to bolster up lagging business. After a conference with Mr. Bowman, Camilla decides to attempt the work. With ideas running riot in her head she goes home and spends the night sketching. In the morning, armed with her samples she sets out for the agency.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXX

It was a question which girl had received the sudden announcement of Peter's marriage with more disappointment and amazement, Avis or Sylvia. To Avis, however, it was merely another obstacle in the path toward her ambition. To Sylvia, it preaged a certain finality for the two possibilities she had envisioned, and for which she had been playing a double hand. As she exclaimed to her astonished image when she read the announcement in the society column of the morning paper, "Well, for crying at the moon! Who woulda thought they could fool everyone like that? Um, um, I guess that lays me out with flowers, all right, either way you look at it. I'll bet the high and mighty Avis Werth feels like a pucker up green apple, herself."

The rattling of the telephone bell interrupted her monologue. "Um! the green apple herself, I'll bet."

"Yeah, hello," she drawled, and nodded her head with confirmation toward her silent audience of one, in the mirror.

"You've seen the latest news?" inquired Avis.

"I just read it, and as if you read my mind, the phone rings. I guessed it was you right away."

"Clever of you, I'm sure. But you haven't been so clever with Mr. Anson as you expected to be."

"Well, and isn't this good enough proof of the reason why? A new bride—what would you expect of me with such competition as that? I guess it surprised even you, didn't it? Not much chance for either of us, there."

"Either of us?" surprised.

"Well, you know what I mean. No chance for me to vamp him away from the Hoyt girl so you could take him over in sympathy," and she added to herself, "Fine chance you'd had at him if I had got that far!"

"I don't know why not!"

"You don't mean you're not ready to give him up, yet?"

"Why should I? Just because a man is married doesn't mean that he's chained to a life sentence, does it? In fact, this particular situation makes it easier to break up. But I'll take the affair into my own hands."

"But, say," Sylvia objected, "I guess this may work for him, even if he's married. I wouldn't be so mean as to cheat a fellow like that when he's done nothing to me. Besides, I have some pride in the ethics of my profession, and my reputation. Models don't desert an employer in the middle of a piece of work."

"Suit yourself about that," Avis agreed indifferently, "but you needn't worry about quitting me in the middle of a piece of work. I won't need your services longer, and if you see a new tenant in Annex Hall soon, don't recognize me."

"Okay with me, Miss Werth. Rent two studios in the Annex Hall, for all I care."

"By the way, you will be wise if you drop your efforts to attract Mr. Anson."

"Say, I'm only too glad not to be under obligation to think up new ways for thawing out that iceberg," she retorted, but her blue eyes twinkled with the thought, "Being under obligation no more, let's rise out. But I guess if he is still ripe cherries for you, he is for me, too, your highness!"

But when Sylvia went to Peter's studio on the following day to pose, she experienced a new and kindlier interest in the man and his work. She twitted him in her characteristic gay manner.

"So! young man, you've been misrepresenting yourself to me as a bachelor, and all the time you were a married man, with a trusting wife concealed in your private life."

"Well, I guess I've given you no cause for complaint," he laughed easily.

"I'll say you haven't," she admired. "But say, I'd like to see the girl that stirred you up enough to lead you to the marriage license bureau and then keep it a secret."

"You may, any time you wish. I'll have Camilla run in some day and meet you. She would like to, I'm sure."

"Camilla—well name. Is she as beautiful as her name sounds?"

"Ever so much more beautiful!" he declared proudly.

Sylvia reflected upon that with haste. "More beautiful than I am?"

"I wouldn't say that—no. But your types are so different, I couldn't compare you. She is about your size, but has dark eyes and black hair."

"Then I was wasting my time, anyway," she shrugged with good humor. "I might have known a blond gentleman like you would prefer a brunette. Well, good luck to you two, and that means we had better get to work."

"Thanks, yes, it does," Peter replied. "I have to get this thing ready to cast the mold in another week, or I won't be ready for the exhibit, after all."

Several days later, when Sylvia came again to Peter's studio, she observed that the hall was strewn with crates and boxes.

"Someone moving in across the hall?" she asked him.

"Looks like it, doesn't it?"

"Well, it'll be nice to have near neighbors. You're sort of alone up at this end of the hall."

"That's why I took this room. That suite across the hall is twice as large as this and twice as much rent, and I didn't think it was likely to be occupied very soon."

"Know who it is?"

"Haven't the slightest idea. Nor do I care. I am going to be so busy for the next month that I can't even say hello to anyone."

"Oh, yeah?" thought Sylvia. "Well, they might say more than hello to you," but she said no more to Peter. When Camilla telephoned Mr. Bowman on the morning after her first conference with his executives, and announced that she had samples ready to submit to him, he exclaimed with dismay and disappointment, "But, Miss Hoyt, surely you haven't—what I mean is, we want you to take your time, even though we are anxious to have your suggestions as soon as possible."

"That was what I understood," she agreed patiently, "and they are ready now."

"Very well. We shall be glad to see them whenever you can come in." But his voice indicated that he expected to be keenly disappointed, because no one could produce a worthwhile suggestion and the vidence within less than twenty-four hours.

Camilla, however, arranged the precious ink and color drawings in the order she wished to display them and drove downtown confidently. The two hours of sleep had refreshed her unbelievably, and the inspiration of the previous day still made her heart light and her thoughts hopeful. Of course, she conceded the possibility that the work was not as good as she believed it to be, but she was no less eager for the verdict of her judges.

She even detected a less cordial attitude in Mr. Bowman's greeting, she thought. Or was it only her imagination? He appeared already to feel the disappointment which he anticipated in her hasty work.

After all, he thought, like every young hopeful, the prospect had stimulated her imagination and she had leaped into the first idea that came to her, with visions of sudden fame and wealth. That was what everyone was looking for these days—nothing less an elevator to success and wealth. Ladders to success were obsolete, along with one-hoss shays and celluloid collars.

Mr. Bowman had called a second conference with less optimism, and Camilla found herself once more seated at his right, with six men surrounding the polished walnut table. Her fingers trembled a little with fatigue or apprehension—as she opened the portfolio and laid the drawing before them.

"Perhaps I had better explain the idea briefly before you look at these," she suggested modestly.

"Very well, Miss Hoyt." (To Be Continued)

Canada Able To Produce Enough For Home Needs

Canada does not import many eggs, the domestic hen apparently being able to cater for her own folk. The few we get—3,764 dozen in December, which was considerably above the average of the past year—came mainly from Hong Kong, United States and Australia. The total supply in 1933 was 24,753 dozen. That is, eggs in the shell, for we get frozen and dried eggs from China and the United States to some little extent—36,706 pounds in 1933, which was less than one-third of the 1932 requirement.

Mr. Bryce Innis returned home on Monday from a business trip to the city.

A very successful Valentine dance was held at Crescent Hill school on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. H. W. Love was a visitor in Irma on business last Wednesday, February 21st.

The Irma boys, however, were the losers to Wainwright in a friendly game played on Wainwright ice, Tuesday evening, February 20th. This is the first time this winter the Irma team has lost to Wainwright.

Mr. Geo. Clark was the referee. We understand Jack Fletcher, who was operated on for appendicitis in the Wainwright hospital on February 15th, will be able to come home on Saturday, February 24th.

SAVING MONEY ON SEED

What would you think of a farmer who each spring bought high priced breeding stock, and each fall sold his entire herd at market prices, not even retaining the best females for breeding purposes? He would have to be pretty well off to be able to afford it, would he not? But this is just parallel to what is being done annually on thousands of farms in this province. Every year seed grain is purchased at a relatively high price, and the entire crop grown from this seed is sold for a mere song—or conversely, in many cases inferior seed is sown year after year, with even more disastrous financial results.

Many far-sighted farmers have discovered that neither of these methods follows very closely the path of progress, and have resorted to an alternative. This is to secure a small amount of good foundation seed, sow it on clean summerfallow, and use the grain secured from this crop for the next spring's seed. If an eye is kept on the seed plot and any weeds which may appear are methodically pulled, there is no reason why the man engaged in mixed farming should not harvest almost as good a yield of seed as his nearest neighbor, who is a seed grower; and the following spring, he will discover that it is very pleasant not to have to dig into his pocket for money to buy seed, at a time when the price of grain is usually at its peak.

A good plan is to sow a seed plot every spring for each variety of grain to be grown the following year. Barring casualties, these plots should produce sufficient grain to seed down fields many times their own size; and then, there is a real pride of achievement in producing a good crop from seed of one's own growing.

Every year a large number of seed plots are grown at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, and the grain from these plots sold as registered or certified seed of the highest grades of foundation seed. A visit during the summer to the experimental station at Lacombe, to see how these seed plots are handled, would be well worth while for anyone interested in growing his own seed; and for anyone wishing to avoid having to purchase seed in the spring of 1935 it would be extremely profitable to this spring secure from a seed grower a small amount of foundation seed to sow on clean summerfallow and increase for a seed supply for next year.

Quebec Dog Derby Thrills

Names to conjure with in the dog sled derby world are now on the lists of drivers who will contend for the premier honors of the Quebec Sled Derby to be "aged in the Ancient Capital, February 23rd, 24th, and 25th. Emilie St. Godard, mighty musher from Le Pas, Man., will again match dogs; stamina and wits against his great rival Leonard Seppala, the Alaskan whose feats on the trails are known the world over. St. Godard and Seppala, who are now training at Laconia, N. H., will both meet strenuous competition from such famous mushers as Jack Delalco, of Ottawa, Fred Wheeler, of St. Jovite, Que., and Raymond Rital, of Orient, Ont. It is expected that the total entries will run well over 20 teams.

The 120 mile classic is famous the world over, and followers of the great hearted dogs and gallant drivers are arranging to make their headquarters at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Chateau Frontenac, where special music, dancing and lighthearted gaiety will feature each evening during Dog Sled Derby Week. Winter sport enthusiasts from European, United States and Canadian centers are this year more than ever before making Quebec their winter playground. Ski-ing, tobogganing, curling and skating are among the popular activities under the direction of Jack Strathdee winter sports director at the Chateau Frontenac.

Graham Returned to Office As Councillor of Viking

By a vote of 71 to 50, Noble C. Graham was re-elected as councillor of the village of Viking over Wm. Brown at the election held last Monday.

Voting took place in the town hall from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m., with returning officer Wm. McAtthey in charge. C. Hilliker acted as scrutineer for Wm. J. Brown and Geo. A. Loades in the same capacity for N. C. Graham.

Considerable interest was taken in the election by the citizens, voters and non-voters alike. There was no real issue at stake, both candidates declaring themselves to stand for the best interests of the community. Mr. Graham has served for seven years on the council and has had charge of the public works program which he carried out very successfully. His knowledge of municipal affairs and the energy with which he enters into his duties will be of great value to the council for another term of three years.

This was Mr. Brown's first attempt to carry an election and the vote shows that he was well supported. It is a good sign to see young business men taking an active interest in the affairs of the town.

Many who failed to have their names put on the voters' list last November were disappointed when they found out they had no vote. This section of the Act will no doubt be more closely followed this year.

Heard among the women folks: "So your husband objects to cats." "Yes, indeed. He says that I feed all the cats in the neighborhood. Won't you stay and have tea?"

"You are the sunshine of my life, darling," said a local fellow to his Holden girl, "You reign alone in my heart, and with you at my side I could weather any storm." "Well, what is this, a proposal or a weather report?" the girl asked.

Something to worry about—An average of 44,000 thunder storms occur on the earth every day.
